Introducing Raimundo

We've asked Raimundo, the new leader at Casa Reom, to introduce himself. "My name is Raimundo Mannhisse and I am married to Elisa who works as the base leader at YWAM Marromeu. We have three children, Rosangela, Ester and Caleb."

Raimundo continues ... "However, we have other children living with us who do not have a father or mother but have lived with us since they were children and some are now grown up. So, as you can see I have a big family. We have been working in mission since 1998, first working in YWAM Dondo until 2004, before moving to YWAM Marromeu in 2005. We have worked in training, as well as having a ministry to the elderly and newborn babies who have lost their mothers."

Building Appeal

One of Raimundo's responsibilities is to oversee the building work on the Staff Accommodation Block at Casa Reom. In the last few months work on the ground floor has gone well in preparation for adding the top floor and completing the building.

The Trust have been successful in applying for a grant from an international funder which has paid for a significant part of the ground floor. However, we now need to raise funds to complete this work and we currently have a number of further applications in progress. But we need your help too!

Here are some ways you can help:

- Organise a fund-raising event
- Ask your church or company to donate £1000
- Make a personal donation

Re-integration Visits

As boys grow up at Casa Reom, the staff prepare them to live independent lives when they leave the centre. For some of the boys, this means re-connecting with relatives they have lost touch with and helping them to re-integrate with these family members.

Staff members Nelio and Boniface were joined by a social worker during a recent re-integration trip where Milagre, Armindo and Manu were re-united with families.

For more stories on re-integration see casa-reom.org.uk/adults.
